TIE PASS IN HANDS OF JAPS

OCCUPIED THE PLACE AT MIDNIGHT

Postponement of Russian Loan Definitely Confirmed—Murder of Foreigners by Chinese Discredited—Other War News.

BULLETIN.

New Chwang, March 16.—The Japanese occupied Tie Pass Wednesday at midnight.

Meagre reports have been received from a Russian source of a slight eight miles south of Tie Pass between a Russian force under Mischenko and a Japanese column, identity of which is unknown. The latter was repulsed, it is said, with a loss of a thousand killed.

The rumor that after evacuation of Mukden eighty foreigners, including an American newspaper correspondent, had been murdered by Chinese is discredited by the fact that the correspondent in question reported to his paper March 14 that he had been captured by Japanese and was being taken to Kobe.

A steamer arriving at Singapore reports having passed a squadron of twenty-two Japanese warships twenty miles east of the entrance to the Straits of Malacca. Two Japanese cruisers and two auxiliary cruisers previously arrived at Singapore. Presumably these vessels are on the way westward in search of the Russian second Pacific squadron, last reported in Madagascar waters.

Paris, March 16.—Postponement of the Russian loan is definitely confirmed. This is likely to exert a powerful influence towards peace.

RUSSIANS CLAIM VICTORY.

Saintpaul, March 16.—(Noon.)—A sanguinary combat occurred March 14 on the other advanced line of the Russian army eight miles south of Tie Pass. Russians repulsed the attack and even made a small advance through a thousand corpses of Japanese and advancing a large force on the right flank, where General Mischenko, who has taken command of his detachment, is holding the Japanese in check.

St. Petersburg, March 16.—Flanking tactics by Japanese are in progress again, the Associated Press correspondent who remains at Tie Pass telegraphing that General Mischenko on March 14 engaged a Japanese force on the Russian right. It is possible the attacking force was the Japanese column which disappeared from view during the battle of Mukden. The Japanese do not appear to have renewed the frontal attack up to noon yesterday, the demonstration Tuesday having shown the Russians were prepared to make a determined resistance. The office of the censor has already been removed to Saintpaul, eight miles north of Tie Pass, and there are intimations it may soon be established further north.

The Associated Press correspondent, though saying nothing regarding the commissariat arrangements for troops, declares newspaper correspondents practically have been starved out of Tie Pass. This may, perhaps, be an indication of the amount of food available for the army, immense quantities of which were destroyed at Mukden, where practically the entire reserve commissariat has been accumulated.

The rumor of the murder of eighty foreigners, including Richard H. Little, correspondent of the Chicago News, at Mukden, it is hoped and believed here to be unfounded. It is assumed they may have been captured by Japanese, as it has already been reported a French correspondent named Nadeau is in the hands of the Japanese.

According to Chinese reports the governor of Mukden gave a banquet in honor of the Japanese generals after their triumphal entry into the city and a Russian journalist wires that with occupation of Mukden by the Japanese Russians press against the Chinese has been utterly destroyed. The correspondent says that this is already noticeable and that even a triumphant victory would not restore Russia to the place in the estimation of the Chinese which she held a year ago.

It is rumored an order for another general mobilization is being prepared, and that a new army will be forwarded to Manchuria as fast as possible by railway and the summer steam service.

FROM KUROPATKIN.

St. Petersburg, March 15.—Kuropatkin in a dispatch dated 14th says: "A fierce Japanese attack on the center of our positions at the Pan river about thirteen miles south of Tie Pass has been repulsed. More than a thousand corpses remain in front of our positions."

KUROPATKIN'S SUCCESSOR.

St. Petersburg, March 15.—It is definitely stated the emperor has approved the decision of the council of war to send Grand Duke Nicholas Nikolaevitch to replace Kuropatkin.

The question of peace still engrosses public attention, but attaches of the government apparently remain firm.

WAR REPORTS.

London, March 15.—A Singapore dispatch says four Japanese cruisers arrived there to day from the eastward.

Tokio, March 15.—The American steamer Tacoma was seized by a Japanese guard-ship yesterday. The Tacoma is owned by the Northwestern Commercial Steamship company of Seattle, from which port she sailed Jan. 6 with a cargo of barreled beef for Vladivostok, it is said.

London, March 15.—A dispatch from Singapore to Lloyd's, dated 6 p. m., says the British steamer Hongwan reports having passed twenty-two Japanese warships off Hongkong, twenty miles east of Singapore, at the entrance of the Straits of Malacca.

London, March 15.—A dispatch from Singapore to the Express, dated March 15, says: "The Japanese fleet departed this afternoon."

DEFENDS KUROPATKIN

Russian Correspondent Attributes Defeat to Ignorance and Too Much Talking.

St. Petersburg, March 15.—M. Kiriloff, one of the Associated Press Russian correspondents, says the blame for successive defeats is not Kuropatkin's. Mishaps at first were attributed to the defensive position of Kuropatkin and it was said that when the Russians assumed the initiative all would be well. This was not realized because every movement was pre-ordained to failure by premature publication or dilatory execution of plans.

The interest stripping subalterns' chatter recklessly and informally of dispositions and movements which should be known only to a few chiefs. Dispositions and plans of the battle of the Shasha river, for example, were openly discussed several days in advance in the railroad restaurants at Mukden in the hearing of many Chinese, civilians and camp followers.

While this opening the Japanese eyes the Russians close theirs. Not only company and battalion commanders, but even colonels, and at times commanders of divisions, enter into battle ignorant of every maneuver they are expected to execute. For instance, General Orloff Sept. 2 was entrusted with a movement on which the battle of Liao Yang hinged, and he blindly led 15,000 men into action ignorant of why, wherefore or whither. Naturally there was disaster instead of the destruction of Kuropatkin's forces and victory.

The general staff is inattentive to the all-important duty of mapping. Even now Russians have unsatisfactory maps and units in hilly country are unable to keep in touch with each other. The Russian intelligence department is defective. It knows nothing of Japanese numbers, positions or movements not only in unsettled mountainous regions but even more populated plains of Manchuria. Instead of easily securing the sympathy of Chinese, Russians alienated them and they now side with the Japanese. Russians drove away Chinese bandits who are now the eyes of the Japanese army and who destroy bridges and communications as well. Kuropatkin is also hampered by fanatical reports from nervous generals, particularly those of Rennenkampf, who send "poems instead of reports." The army has been defeated in the past and present and will be in the future unless these causes are remedied.

CEREMONY AT PARIS.

Paris, March 15.—A ceremony commemorative of the inauguration of President Roosevelt was held this morning at St. Joseph's church. The ceremony assumed a distinctly official character. The fate of M. Nadeau, a French newspaper correspondent, who lived with Little, is unknown. A message was sent Oyama to day asking for information as to the fate of the two correspondents. Nadeau is reported to have been captured by Japanese.

HEARD FROM TUESDAY.

Chicago, March 15.—Little cabled direct from Yinkow yesterday to the Chicago News. He said he had been captured by Japanese and was being taken to Kobe. The telegram contained reference which demonstrates that the telegram was from Little personally and that he was alive and well. Yinkow is a seaport of New Schwang and is the place where Little would naturally be taken en route to Japan.

With the exception of $500 worth of personal effects, exempt from claims of creditors, all furnishings will be sold at auction Friday. Mrs. Chadwick was granted permission by Judge Taylor to visit the home to decide upon what property she would retain. Immediately upon entering the residence she broke down and wept bitterly.

When Mrs. Chadwick and her husband met they smiled, nodded at each other and then shook hands. Only a few words were exchanged. Dr. Chadwick had not previously seen his wife for two months.

OPPOSED TO PEABODY

Seventeen Republicans Prefer Adams to their Party Leader

Denver, March 15.—The end of the Peabody-Adams gubernatorial contest will come when the anti-Peabody Republicans decide to bring the matter to a vote in the joint assembly. It is practically conceded that seventeen of the twenty-two McDonald Republicans are unalterably in favor of retaining Adams in the chair and will never vote for seating Peabody permanently. They may eventually vote to seat Peabody temporarily, depending upon him to resign and allow Lieutenant Governor McDonald to succeed him. It is reliably reported Peabody has signed an undated resignation of the governorship and placed it in the hands of a third party to be given anti-Peabody Republicans whenever they are ready to send him. While this suggestion may be followed by the anti-Peabody Republicans, they hesitate, fearing some trick may be turned on them that will keep Peabody in the governor's chair and thereby defeat them in their determination to cause his retirement.

A FIERCE STORM

London, March 15.—A storm of hurricane force burst over the Irish and English coasts during the night. It is feared many disasters have occurred, but telegraph lines are broken at many points. A number of minor wrecks accompanied by loss of life have been reported. Departure of Queen Alexandra, Princess Victoria and other members of the royal family for Lisbon, scheduled to have occurred yesterday, was postponed until to morrow.

YOUNG SINGER INSANE

Dumped in Belle's She Was Opera Star—Failure to Score a Hit Made Her Crazy.

Paris, March 15.—On the liner St. Paul, which sailed for New York last Saturday, is Miss Margaret Martin, of Little York, Ill., who has lost her reason through inability to become an opera singer. She came here some months ago to study vocal music and had been led to believe that there was a great future in store for her. Recently, however, she sang a difficult aria before a noted American teacher here and upon this conclusion the teacher was compelled to tell Miss Martin that all her efforts were in vain; that she could never shine on the operatic stage.

The girl brooded over the sad verdict in her case and speedily became insane. Relatives refused, it is alleged, to send her to take her home and Consul Gowdy and other Americans furnished the funds for her passage. Miss Martin is returning in the care of a trained nurse. She is 23 years old.

Great blame is placed on the teachers who led Miss Martin to believe that she would become a great singer and who are said ironically to have advised her but of this her money by advising her to come to this city to continue her studies.

PROSPERITY FOR ANOTHER YEAR.

Chicago, March 15.—More than $2,000,000 for new equipment for railroads during the current year—$111,000,000 by ten systems, and about $90,000,000 by other lines—is the almost unprecedented record made by American transportation companies, and it is taken as a forecast of an era of still greater prosperity in the nation. The demand made on the railroads for equipment is regarded as the unfailing barometer of commercial conditions and railway managers the first to feel the strengthening pulse of national, as well as international commerce.

CROSBY AND GILBERT TIE.

OFFICIALS OF UNIVERSITY

MAKE STATEMENT IN STANFORD CASE

Do Not Believe Death Was Result of Poisoning—Funeral Services Held at Honolulu and Body Placed on Steamer.

Honolulu, March 15.—Dr. Jordan, president of Stanford university, and Timothy J. Hopkins of the board of trustees of the university have signed a joint statement regarding the Stanford case. They say they are fully "convinced the death of Mrs. Stanford was not due to strychnine poisoning nor intentional wrongdoing on the part of any one." They also express the opinion "that death was due to a combination of conditions and circumstances. Among these we may note, in connection with her advanced age, unaccustomed exertion, surfeit and unwholesome food and unusual exposures during a picnic to which she went on the day of her death." They say in conclusion: "We must recognize that the preliminary hypothesis of accidental poisoning seemed a natural one under the extraordinary circumstances. We regard it, however, as being without foundation and wholly incompatible with the evidence in our possession."

Detestives are of the opinion that the verdict of the coroner's jury that Mrs. Stanford died by strychnine poisoning was not justified by the evidence presented.

REMAINS OF MRS. STANFORD.

Honolulu, March 15.—The remains of Mrs. Jane Lathrop Stanford, who died here Feb. 28, were escorted this morning to the Congregational Union church by officials of the police department and a large number of citizens. The pall bearers included Dr. David Starr Jordan, president of Stanford university; Timothy Hopkins, a member of the board of trustees; Governor Carter and United States District Judge Hale.

After the services at the church the body was escorted to the wharf, where there was a large gathering of people, and placed on board the steamer Albatross, which, soon afterwards sailed for San Francisco.

Bertina Berner and May Hunt secretary and maid respectively to Mrs. Stanford, were present at the services, each in deep mourning. Miss Berner especially displayed intense grief. They were escorted on board of the steamer by a deputy sheriff.

Vienna, March 15.—The report from Rome that the Italian war ministry proposed to ask the deputies for $40,000,000 to fortify the eastern and northern frontiers of Italy was reiterated to day and caused considerable comment in Vienna, where it was taken as evidence of Italy's growing distrust of Austria and was characterized as an indirect result of weakening of Russian power in the far east and consequent loss of Russian influence in the Balkan peninsula. "A foreign office official said to the Associated Press:

"Austria is naturally distressed at this manifestation of Italy's distrust of Austrian purposes, but if Italy finds satisfaction in spending large sums in fortifying her frontier with the result of increasing Italy's sense of security in lessening chances of mutual misunderstanding and friction, the step will not be without advantage to both powers."

State Senate Passes Stringent Measure—House Expected to Take Favorable Action.

Chicago, March 15.—A bill was passed unanimously by the state senate to day prohibiting pool selling of any description on results of horse races. The bill as passed makes it the duty of the sheriff upon representation under oath made by five or more citizens that any persons are keeping or operating any shed, room, etc., for the purpose of recording bets upon horse races to immediately arrest such persons and suppress such places.

The bill also contains a provision that upon failure of the sheriff to suppress three betting places he shall be guilty of treason in office and fined in any sum not exceeding $5,000 and shall be removed by the governor. The bill will come up before the house next week and it is the opinion it will be passed by this body without much opposition.

DEMURRAGE LAW

Springfield, March 15.—Representative McCastine, independent member from Rock Island, to day introduced a bill drawn by the state grain dealers' association providing for a uniform reciprocal demurrage law in this state, requiring railroad and warehouse commission to enforce the provisions thereof. There is no such law on the statute books of any state and the present bill was only drawn after a long line of counsel had been sought from numerous attorneys.

RETAIL MERCHANTS.

The Retail Merchants' association met in the Wyoming club rooms Wednesday evening and much interest in the subjects discussed was manifested.

The meeting was called as a substitute for the regular meeting, which should have been held Monday night last, and after the usual business, J. B. Crankshaw, who was present, was invited to explain to the members the interurban proposition which he is engineering. This was done in order that the members as an association might take intelligent action on the matter of the ordinance to be presented to the city council at the regular meeting to night. A free discussion of the project was indulged in by the members, all being heartily in favor of friendly action in behalf of the privileges asked by the corporation.

The sentiment of the association was expressed in the following resolution offered by Col. E. C. Kroider and seconded by John Sutter, that, "It is the sense of this Retail Merchants' association that the new railway is a good thing for the city, and that they request their representatives in the city council to vote for the granting of the franchise to the new Alton-Jacksonville interurban electric road." The resolution will be sent to the mayor and to the city council to be read at the meeting this evening.

The vote on the resolution was unanimous and hearty, showing very decidedly the feeling of the members of the association concerning the project.

CANNOT SECURE ENOUGH VOTES

DOMINICAN TREATY MAY FAIL OF RATIFICATION

Republican Leaders of Senate Unable to Get a Two Thirds Vote—Various Plans Suggested—Capital Notes.

Washington, March 15.—Republican leaders of the senate are all at sea respecting the action advisable to take in regard to the Santo Domingo treaty. Recognizing that the Democrats control more than one-third the votes and that two-thirds are required to ratify the convention, the sentiment of the Republican leaders is that the treaty should be withdrawn by the president. On this subject the senate and president do not agree and the idea prevails that after one or two days more of inconsequential discussion the special session of the senate will be allowed to adjourn without debate and the treaty lapse.

But this plan is not popular in the senate and away to avoid it is being sought. One alternative, which in the discussion concerning it was termed merely an excuse for inaction, is that Cullom as chairman of the committee on foreign relations will offer a resolution to direct the president to appoint a commission to make an investigation of the Santo Domingo debt and other questions involved in the problem. This plan was agreed on tentatively as the program most desirable under the existing conditions, especially as it is believed such a resolution could be adopted without debate. No decision was reached which may not be changed to morrow, however, and other plans have been suggested or are brewing.

Senator Newlands offered a resolution calling on the president to forward to the senate certain information believed to be in possession of the state department in relation to Dominican affairs. The resolution was not seriously considered at the time, but later in the day it was whispered that if the resolution were adopted and the Democrats felt all information obtainable would be given them a deflection of three or four Democratic votes might result. This would ratify the treaty. Leaders of the minority, on the other hand, took the position no information could be forthcoming which would change the principle involved in the treaty and that it is idle for the Republicans to hope for aid from their side of the chamber. Even the most anguished Republicans can see no way of getting better than within three votes of ratification.

A HERO OF MANY BATTLES

J. W. JAMES OF MURRAYVILLE, A GALLANT VETERAN OF THE "LOST CAUSE."

Experienced Many Thrilling Encounters and Numerous Hardships While in the Service of the Confederacy.

One of Murrayville's popular and prosperous merchants is J. W. James, a man who has a kind word for everybody and has gained the general good will of the people among whom he has lived for many years. He is quiet and wholly unobtrusive with no semblance of boasting or bragging, though if he chose he could tell of adventures and experiences which would stamp him a hero of undaunted courage. Learning that he had an interesting history, a Journal representative recently visited him and made a request for a story, which the gentleman freely gave, all the time disclaiming any special right to notoriety or glory, but when one reads his simple story it will be seen that he endured no little and braved death many times for the cause he believed to be right and the fact that he, like so many others, was honestly mistaken, takes nothing from the credit due him. His story was substantially as follows:

"I was born in Orange county, North Carolina, June 24, 1844, and spent my early life there. We had no very good schools there that were free and had to pay to attend the private ones, which I did. My father was a farmer but was always opposed to slavery and would not own any human chattels for he believed it to be wrong, so what help he wanted he hired. My father died when I was eight years old and my mother carried on the place successfully. There was also a military school in the vicinity, taught by Prof. Lightfoot, who was a military drill master and thorough in his profession. The war like spirit always prevailed to a greater or less degree all over the south and our part was no exception. We had drills and regular parades and were well used to the marching orders, the manual of arms, the music of the fife and drum and the military work generally. I belonged to a company known as the Flat River Guards and was about the youngest member of it and when the war broke out our organization was prompt to offer its services, and we all went into the army of the Confederate states of America in '61. Of course at the south we all honestly believed we were right and acted accordingly, though I am sure that pretty much all fair minded men are glad the result was a defeat of the confederacy for now this is a happy, united land. We were sent first to Durham to drill and later on to a small place on the North Carolina Central railroad where the machine shops of the company were located. There the regiment was formed, most of the other companies coming from the western part of the state, and placed in command of Colonel Fisher, who was a prominent railroad official and who had brought to the command a company recruited from among the employees of the road and were mostly Irishmen and good fighters. Prof. Lightfoot was the lieutenant colonel and a man named Webb was major. Our captain was W. K. Parrish, originally from Baltimore, but for several years a resident of our county in North Carolina. He was a fine man and went clear through the war with us and was alive and well a few months ago. In the seven days' fight below Richmond, in 1862, at the Gaines farm, he sustained a wound that made a hole in his head and he carries the bullet yet. He was a thorough going soldier and took the best possible care of his men and all liked him. Our company had smart uniforms when we enlisted and that fact brought us the first honor we had. The governor of the state had died and we were detailed to go to Raleigh to attend the funeral as a guard of honor, and right proudly we bore the distinction. Next we went to Strasburg, Va., and then to Manassas, where the historic battle of Bull Run was fought. It was a wild, desultory affair on both sides, and as a confederate officer remarked to a federal, "I never saw such a badly scared set of men in my life as ours were, except yours."

The federal forces had arranged for a grand banquet to celebrate the expected victory and had their provisions bought and all details fixed, but they had no use for their bill of fare. It is related that a United States senator had been perpetually crying: "On to Richmond," and abusing the generals of the army for not pushing things. He was a stout man and had gone out, like many others, to see the confederates done up in short order, but when the federal troops began to retreat he ran like a good fellow. A soldier was not far behind him when he stumbled and fell and the soldier fell right on top of him. The old fellow, thinking his time had come, remarked as he struggled for breath, "My God! Can't this thing be compromised?"

The whole battle was wild and desultory on both sides, though we had some advantage in the fact that at home we had drilled more or less, while so many of the federal troops were wholly unused to anything like military work. Our regiment was not brigaded at the time and went into the fight independently. Colonel Fisher was a brave man, but knew absolutely nothing of military tactics. The federals had a formidable piece of artillery called "Long Tom," calculated to do deadly work. Right toward it the colonel led the regiment and in files four abreast, and had not the artillerymen been cut off by our sharpshooters few of our regiment would have been left to tell the tale, but as it was we didn't lose very many. Colonel Fisher was among the first to fall and then Lieutenant Colonel Lightfoot took command and at once proceeded to wheel the regiment into line. He thoroughly understood himself and after that we had less trouble. There was no lack of bravery on either side, but the fact was the troops were wholly unfit for a conflict and it had only been precipitated by the impetuosity of the press and people, especially at the north, and the result taught them a useful lesson at a great cost.

It was the first time the greater part of either command had been under fire and they found it meant something serious to be soldiers. The rattling of musketry, the roar of artillery, the shriek of shells, the clouds of smoke, the cries of the wounded, the confusion of the ranks, all made a day long to be remembered. Our lines often faltered and had they met better seasoned troops the result

WHY DOES

A BABY CRY?

Because it is either hungry or in pain. Properly nourished it will usually grow up right and be comfortable—that's the principal thing for a baby. If its food lacks strength and nourishment add Scott's Emulsion at feeding time. A few drops will show surprising results. If a baby is plump it is reasonably safe. Scott's Emulsion makes babies plump.

would have been different, but as it was we won the day. How it came about I never knew, but toward nightfall I found myself alone on the field among a number of our own wounded and when I went to the command the officers asked me where I had been and then detailed me to go with the surgeons and find the wounded, and I was kept out until midnight.

We rested a while and then went to the renowned seven days' battle of the Wilderness. My memory is often at fault in regard to dates and in telling my story I may not get the order of things quite right, but may place one battle ahead of another when it should be behind; but the engagements themselves are clear in my mind. That awful conflict I can never forget and the persistent bravery of the federal troops in the face of continued defeat was magnificent. Night after night they would gather around their camp fires and sing lustily every evening, even though they had suffered so severely. One regiment was in Stonewall Jackson's command and he was killed by his soldiers who would follow him anywhere. He was a pious man and I have more than once attended preaching services at his headquarters. He was a splendid soldier, too, thorough in tactics, unflinching in vigilance, severe in discipline, while kind and just to all. Had he lived the result might have been different. Our regiment operated much in the flanking movements and as we went we captured more or less stores and supplies and fared very well. The dreadful scenes of that week will never be effaced from my mind, though our regiment did not have as hard fighting as some other parts of our army.

Antietam was our next objective point, though I think we had a small engagement with Meade's forces before that time. At Antietam both sides fought stubbornly back and forth and the result was a victory for neither side. That night we recrossed the Potomac and as my shoes were worn out I had to go barefooted for several days before I could get another pair and the ordeal was anything but pleasant.

Next came the memorable battle of Fredericksburg, where up the street we marched behind the intrepid Stonewall Jackson, but I can't say that I saw anything of the far-famed "Barbaric Petticoat," who is said to have invited us to shoot at her gray held rather than at the stars and stripes. Whittier makes a beautiful poem out of the story, but I guess the facts are rather wanting. Certainly I saw nothing of the good old lady nor did I ever hear of her until I came north after the war. That was a hard fought engagement and there it was that we had the hardest test that a soldier can have. Our regiment was deployed as skirmishers, to go out in front at night and wait for the time to begin hostilities and draw the fire of the other side. It was a trial to a man's courage, though strange to say, we lost rather few men. We were in an open piece of ground and had all sorts of troops in front of us and they were men who did their duty, but somehow we came off with less loss than would have been expected. During the battle, when there was a sort of lull in hostilities, one of our officers and a federal officer met under an apple tree between the lines and engaged in conversation. All at once the artillery opened up and the way those two men ran to their respective commands was a caution. In the dreadful carnage I became separated from my command and was going it some, what alone when I spied a federal soldier some distance away, and about the same time he saw me. He took to a convenient tree and I sought shelter and we shot at each other for some time, though he failed to hit me and I guess I didn't hurt him, but the bullets whistled most uncomfortably close to my body several times.

Hooker was a brave man, knowing nothing of fear, intrepid in a fight and fighting in bravery, but he was not good at handling an army, as both sides discovered. He was named "Fighting Joe," which was just for he was a gallant fighter, but he lacked cool calculations and failed in many critical moments.

Three times our command fought at Fredericksburg and at many other places had smaller engagements and generally came out well, though of course we lost more or less and were recruited from time to time. At one of the engagements at Fredericksburg I was taken prisoner, as I had become detached from my command a short distance and the federals came running along retreating and picked me up and took me along on double quick time. I was held nineteen days and then my joy was exchanged and permitted to return to my command.

The greatest experience of our regiment

FRANK WEEKS

BEFORE GRAND JURY

Witness Released From All Liability of Prosecution on Representations Made to Judge Robert Shirley.

The special grand jury reconvened Wednesday. Frank Weeks, of Chicago, who was here with W. F. Mayhew at the time the latter was projecting the Jacksonville Water Works company, appeared before the jury. He was asked certain questions which he refused to answer on the ground that the answers would tend to incriminate him.

Representations of this fact were made before Judge Robert Shirley, who came here at the request of Judge Owen P. Thompson, who is holding court in Sangamon county, and Judge Shirley conveyed the court about 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. The members of the grand jury and Mr. Weeks appeared before the court and after the statement of the facts as above recited, the following order was entered releasing Mr. Weeks from any liability for criminal prosecution that might arise from his testimony before the grand jury, and directing him to answer any questions that might be propounded to him by the grand jury. The order, as entered upon the court docket, reads:

"In the matter of charges of bribery against officers of the city of Jacksonville, Ill., now being investigated by the grand jury of Morgan county."

"It appearing to the court that Frank Weeks, now present before the court, is a material and necessary witness in the matter of charges against certain present officers and former officers of the city of Jacksonville, Ill., and said witness having refused to the grand jury now in session investigating said charges, to answer questions put to him by said grand jury, material to said charges, on the ground that such questions and testimony would tend to criminate said witness, it is hereby ordered that said witness is to be released from all liability to be prosecuted and punished on account of any matter to which he shall testify before said grand jury touching said charges, and from any indictment, information or prosecution against him for any such matter, and said witness is hereby ordered to make full and complete answers to said grand jury touch the said matters now under investigation. It is further ordered that this order be entered upon the records of this court."

The grand jury resumed their session after the order made by Judge Shirley and were in session part of Wednesday evening. The members of the jury took supper in the jury room, the meals having been sent from one of the local restaurants. The jury adjourned about 9 o'clock Wednesday evening until 10 o'clock this morning.

Loss of Sleep Means

Loss of Mind

Inability to Sleep is Nature's Plain Warning of an Exhausted nervous System!

DR. A. W. CHASE'S NERVE PILLS.

When you overwork any muscle or set of muscles they tire and must have rest. What is true of muscle is doubly true of the brain, as from it emanates all power to work, to act, to think. The brain is full of little cells that during the waking hours are never quiet in their efforts to furnish to every organ the power to do its duty. "Roll these little cells of their rest at night—keep them at work all the time and soon they tire, refuse to act, fail to generate nerve force and the system goes to ruin. Bromides, sedatives, opiates only hasten the end—they do not build up, they tear down. The true remedy, the only cure, lies in Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills, a medicine that revitalizes, reinvigorates, and by properly nourishing these overworked little cells gives them rest and quiet and enables one to sleep naturally and easily again.

Mrs. Fred Wholeben of Glade Run, Warren, Pa., says:

"I was induced to use Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills for excessive nervousness. I was so nervous I could not bear a noise or much talking. I was very forgetful—my mind seemed dull. I was listless and tired all the time. The result of the use of the pills was remarkable. They took up the nerve and system generally and I work well again, am strong—my mind is clear and I am much pleased with the pills and can recommend them highly to anyone who feels as I did." 50 cents a box at dealers or Dr. A. W. Chase, Medical Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M. D., are on every package. For sale by Lee P. Allcott, Druggist, east side square, Jacksonville, Ill.

GOT HIS HAIR BACK.

Was Perfectly Bald When He Started to Use Newbro's Hairdye.
"I was perfectly bald when I began to use Newbro's Hairdye. It began to grow in my hair and in 20 days I had hair all over my head. On July 2 he writes, 'and today my hair is as thick and luxuriant as any one could wish.' Newbro's Hairdye works on an old principle and with a new discovery—destroys the cause and you remove the effect. Herdipole destroys the germ that causes dandruff, falling hair, and finally baldness, so that with the cause gone the effect cannot remain. Stops falling hair at once and a new growth starts. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herdipole Co., Detroit, Mich."

CHRONIC SORES

Wheeling, W. Va., May 25, 1904.
Some years ago, while working, I fell over a truck and severely injured both of my shins. My blood became poisoned as a result, and the doctor told me I would have running sores for life, and that if they were healed up the result would be fatal. Under this discouraging report I left off their treatment and resorted to the use of S. S. S. Its effects were prompt and gratifying. It took only a short while for the medicine to entirely cure up the sores, and I am not dead as the doctors intimated, nor have the sores ever broke out again. Some 12 years have elapsed since what I have described occurred. Having been so signally benefited by S. S. S. I can heartily recommend it as the one great blood purifier.
JOHN W. FUNDIS,
Care Schmalback-Brewing Co.

Chronic sores start often from a pimple, scratch, bruise or boil, and while salves, washes and powders are beneficial, the underlying matter in the blood must be driven out or the sore will continue to eat and spread. S. S. S. reaches these old sores through the blood, removes all impurities and poisons, builds up the entire system and strengthens the circulation. S. S. S. is a blood purifier and tonic combined. Contains no mineral what, never hurts, guaranteed purely vegetable. If you have an old sore write us and our physicians will advise without charge. Book on diseases of the blood free.

MR. ROOSEVELT AND THE LADIES.

Mr. Roosevelt is the first president of the women of the United States have had, says the Chicago Tribune. He ought to cut in on the circulation of the Ladies' Home Journal. He is better than the Sunday supplement.

The proportion of his space that he gives to "woman stuff" shows that he will make a capable and knowing editor

after he gets through with the presidency.

Of course Mr. Roosevelt is not exactly a "ladies' man." It is not said that he shines at afternoon teas. The

And the point just now is not Mr.

Roosevelt's, truth or error, but his broad interest in all the affairs of his fellow countrymen—and countrywomen.

Mr. Roosevelt's last message to congress began with saying that the home was more important than anything else, took a perfunctory glance at trusts, tariffs, and railroads, and then plunged gladly into parks, wife-beating, sanitary tenements for workingmen, and other human subjects that no former president would have included within the scope of statesmanship. Mr. Roosevelt likes to be "the first citizen," the "pater patrie,"

the head of the national family.

Hence the paternal lectures which we get at the breakfast table every morning. We don't mind them. They are all right. We may not follow them out every time, but we really and sincerely appreciate the interest that the "old man" takes in us. He is supplanting the czar as the little father.

SUNNY CALIFORNIA

Joseph Tomlinson Writes Interestingly of Experiences on the Pacific Coast—A Visit to Santa Catalina Island.

Joseph Tomlinson, who is enjoying an outing on the Pacific coast, has written a very interesting letter to his son, T. M. Tomlinson, which we are permitted to publish:

"I have just returned from the

Catalina Islands and I will give you a description of the same, as it may be interesting to you and my Jacksonville friends. About three and a half hours ride from Los Angeles in southern California, we take the electric cars from Los Angeles to San Pedro; from there take a steamer to Santa Catalina Island, about

26 miles out in the Pacific ocean.

The island is about 22 miles long, a mountain range in the center. It abounds in beautiful and lofty mountains, deep gorges, stupendous rock cliffs and precipices. Avalon, the principal city, lies at the base of the mountain, has a beautiful crescent bay, making in from the sea, with fleets of boats and yachts of all sizes moving here and there. For boating, bathing and fishing it is unexcelled.

last Tuesday morning, about 7:30, with a friend we hired a launch. The captain took us out to sea about ten miles, and with rod and reel and plenty of sardines for bait we tackled the finny tribe. When all was ready

I cast my line into the sea and in about fifteen minutes I had a strike.

As I was not accustomed to rod and reel the fish, which is their custom, made for deep water. Not understanding exactly how to manage the reel, I let the line go out at a rapid rate. I hardly knew how to stop it.

The captain came to my assistance.

He said about 300 feet of line was out. He began to reel, and it was a slow process, but still the fish was nearing the boat at every revolution of the reel. At last he heave in sight.

The water of the ocean is so clear that you can see twenty or thirty feet down in the water. The captain said:

"Mr. Tomlinson, he is a good size."

Bringing it up near the boat the captain plunged the gaff into him and brought him into the boat, a twenty-pounder. I caught the first fish.

While I was landing mine my friend also had a strike and landed one also, about the same size. When all was ready I threw out again, and in a short time had another good strike.

I understood a little better how to manage my line. The captain assisted me but little this time. I tell you I had quite a siege of it. It pulled hard and strong, but after much patience and hard work I brought it up alongside the boat. The captain again used the gaff and landed him safely in the boat. To undertake to pull fish of their size and weight into the boat, the line is unsafe and liable to break. Consequently the gaff is used.

"After putting on fresh bait, sardines, I threw out once more. The captain said: "Mr. Tomlinson, I want you to manage the next fish entirely by yourself. I don't want to help you at all, except in emergency." I said all right, here goes. I threw out and in about twenty minutes I had another strike. A big one, I tell you.

I had all I could manage. The captain said, "I tell you, you have a dandy this time." And my rod bent like a bow. I was afraid it would

was on the memorable field of Gettysburg, where we were attached to Pickett's command. It is of no use for me to try to describe that battle, for it has been told time and again by able writers who had information from all sources, while a private can know but little of the general movements of an army. I know the first day we drove the federals back and occupied the streets of the town. The second day was mostly occupied with the artillery and it seemed as if all pandemonium had broken loose. We had not done much till in the latter part of the afternoon came the command to make the memorable charge on which the fate of the battle hung. General Pickett was as brave a man as ever wore a uniform and withal he was a fine soldier and capable commander. I am not sure that he felt the order was wise, but it was his to do and not to question. We had never failed before in a charge. We had received an inspiration from Stonewall Jackson and always went in impetuously, determined to let nothing stand before us, and when we went that way we made our point. As every one knows, we had to cross a wheat field and climb several stone fences with rails on top in some cases. With shouts and cheers we started side by side with our officers encouraging us as we went, but soon we found ourselves in a veritable hell of carnage. The cannon of the federals were opened out on us and as soon as we came near enough the musketry was let loose and it seemed as if the infernal regions had been set to work to decimate our ranks. Our troops were mowed down by the awful hail of iron and lead, but not a man faltered from fear, but all who were spared pressed forward until it seemed as if we were within three rods of the other side, while at some points along the line the men met so closely that guns were clubbed in the dreadful contest. So galling had been the fire that our depleted ranks could not stand before the federals and we had for the first time in our experience to admit that we had failed in a charge and the feeling was crushing. I found myself alone after the command to retreat was given and the federals called on me to stop and surrender, but I ran instead, when they opened fire on me, I fell down and supposing I was killed, probably, they paid no attention to me and after a little while I started again and again the balls began to whistle and again I fell, that time by accident, and intended to lie there till after dark. I had been on the ground but a short time when a consister of grape burst over me and for a moment I feared I should be reduced to mince meat and so I concluded to do some more running, and that time I made the trip back to our lines. I shall not attempt to depict the awful gloom that was upon the few survivors. Captain Parrish looked as if we had lost every friend and all hopes of this world or the other, while the scanty list of officers and men acted as if at their own funerals. Our company went in with eighty men and came out with nine and a few stragglers came in later. I never could understand why we were permitted to escape across the Potomac, for we had to wait three or four days for it to fall so we would make it. I suppose General Meade had his reasons, but I never could understand them.

Nov. 7 of that year two brigades of our command were present without rations to support some pickets and the whole of us were taken prisoners and sent to Point Lookout, where we remained till March, 1865, when we were exchanged and saw no more of war. It was the policy of the federal government not to exchange any more prisoners and while it was hard on the captives it was still harder on the confederate armies and hastened the end.

After the war Mr. James came north, where he has lived for a number of years, going to Murrayville from Cass county. His daughter is the wife of Robert Hall, brother of H. H. Hall, of this city. Mr. James is a genial, whole-souled gentleman, kind especially to children, who all love him, and well liked by his neighbors and the community generally in which he lives.

RAILROAD NEWS NOTES

Wabash World's Fair Tickets—Extra Alton Engineers and Firemen Are Restless—Local Items of Interest and Personal Mention.

Joint Agent Norton, who represented twenty St. Louis terminal lines during the world's fair, has made a statement of the number of tickets passing through the validating office, which shows that one-fifth of the total handled were Wabash tickets.

—(o)—
There is a long extra list of engineers and firemen on the Alton round house board at Bloomington just now and there is some murmuring among the older men owing to the prospects of small earnings until there is an improvement in traffic or the work trains are ordered. Some of the senior engineers who are on the extra list think that the young engineers promoted last fall should drop back to firing during the dull and the new firemen laid off until business picks up.

The officials will probably be asked to order this but it is said that the officials would prefer to leave the arrangement just as it is, claiming that the depression is only temporary and that there will be more cold weather and a big increase in traffic. A number of engineers and firemen are taking leave of absence for thirty to sixty days to look over the field elsewhere and if possible land a job for the summer at least which will be an improvement over the extra list.

—(o)—
The Burlington section hands were at work on the track near the East College avenue crossing yesterday.

—(o)—
An engine pulling a passenger on the main line of the C. P. & St. L. broke down near Petersburg Tuesday evening. The wreck delayed No. 37 about one hour and fifty minutes getting into this city.

—(o)—
The C. P. & St. L. will put on their Sunday trains next Sunday. No. 38 will leave this city at 6 p. m. and No. 37 will arrive in this city at 9:10 p. m. These trains will be run two hours and twenty minutes later than the same trains run during the week days.

—(o)—
C. C. Anderson, traveling passenger agent for the Rock Island, spent Wednesday in the city interviewing the local railroad officials.

—(o)—
J. Davis, of the C. P. & St. L. bridge carpenter gang, went to Havana yesterday on company business. The carpenter force is at work on the freight house here and expect to finish the repairs by the first of next week.

—(o)—
N. J. Neer, passenger agent of the B & O S. W., at Springfield, was a caller in the city yesterday.

CENTENARY REVIVAL.
The afternoon meeting Wednesday was led by the deaconess, Miss Skinner. A large audience was present and manifested much interest in efforts to reach the unconverted.

An open air meeting in Central park at 7 o'clock was conducted. Mr. Rigg sang "The Promises of God" and he and the deaconess, Miss Skinner, who has a sweet alto voice, sang "Though Your Sins be as Scarlet." The pastor preached a ten-minute sermon. Quite a company gathered to hear. Several persons heretofore not seen in the church and who were at the park attended the evening service.

A large congregation gathered at night. Major Smith, in command of the Salvation Army work for this state, preached. The sermon produced a profound impression on the church and the spirit of conviction is upon the people. Mr. Rigg sang "Where is My Boy To Night," and the condition of many sons in this city was seriously considered. The prayers and testimonies were in unison and pointed.

Rev. Nathan English will preach to night at 7:30. If the weather is pleasant a short service will be held in the park at 7, when Mr. Rigg and a male quartet are expected to sing.

The Good Effect of Good Clothes.

The story is told of a certain society lady that whenever she felt depressed or gloomy, she would array herself in her most expensive finery, and, presto! gloom took wing and the sunshine of good cheer entered in its place. This woman knew that the members of her sex are always in a happy frame of mind when they are exceedingly well groomed, and reasoning backward, she drew up this law: "If you have the Blues, dress up." The thought may seem far-fetched to some at first glance, but look at it from another point of view and it will not appear so. Haven't you, dear reader, bought a garment that seemed to fit your desires as well as your figure, only to discover in a few days that your judgment had misled you? That the garment had lost all its glamor and didn't fit so well as you thought? And what was the effect on you? Surely a depression of spirits, a loss of cheer—a case of the blues. That is the natural effect—if one is human. On the other hand, you may have bought a garment of beauty that proved to be a joy even unto the day when it was replaced by a newer style. The effect of such a garment was to gladden your heart with a happiness that came fresh every day. It is reasonable to suppose that the maker of a garment that so fully met your desires IS THE ONE to do so again, and so you look for a certain label or brand or mark that identifies the product. It is by this process that the WORTH SKIRT became a name to conjure with. The WORTH SKIRT has always reflected an admirable blending of fit and beauty—an irreproachable mastery of style. Its lines are so firm and sure as to spall dignity and it fits the figure so faultlessly as to become a gracious harmony of all beholders. The satisfaction of a gracefully rounded figure and the distinguished bearing produced by a WORTH SKIRT is revealed by the wearer in the sparkle of the eye and the buoyancy of the step—so easily are we influenced. The COMFORT derived by the wearer of a WORTH SKIRT makes it doubly delightful and the REASONABLE PRICE deserves more than perfunctory notice.

The drawing on this page is an actual reproduction of one of the popular Worth Skirts for spring. We are exclusive selling agents.

JAPANESE NEW YEAR POEMS

Every New Year the emperor and empress of Japan celebrate the day with an original poem. This year we built the poems which recently appeared in the Kokunin Shimbun and are translated by Mr. Lloyd, one of our valued Japanese correspondents. Mr. Lloyd writes that he takes the emperor's poem to be another way of saying that God is our help in ages past and our hope for years to come and the empress' poem to express her gratitude for the many tokens of practical sympathy which she has been able to see around her:

BY HIS MAJESTY MITSUHIRO, EMPEROR OF JAPAN.

The gods that rule our land from ancient times will take the ancient precedents to shape the course of our new age.

BY HER MAJESTY HARUKO, EMPRESS OF JAPAN.

Throughout the land one voice sounds loud and clear.

As from one soul, possessed by one deep thought—

To bear the suffering people's heavy load.

ROOSEVELT, THIEF CATCHER

Incident of the President's Life on a Western Ranch.

"Did you ever hear the story of how President Roosevelt when he was running the ranch on the Little Missouri and was just plain Teddy captured two horse thieves?" recently asked J. B. Thompson of Fairbault, Minn., a group of friends at the Hotel McKay in Duluth, Minn., says a dispatch from that city. "No? Well, I was out there at the time of the incident and can vouch for the truth of the story."

"One day a couple of cowboys rode up to the banks of the river from the side on which the Roosevelt ranch is situated. They removed the saddles and blankets from their horses and dumped the stuff into a boat moored on the shore, turning their animals loose. The men were observed, and as the boat belonged to Mr. Roosevelt he was notified. The men in the boat instead of rowing across the river, as it was at first supposed they would, coolly began rowing downstream to some destination unknown. It was plain that they were stealing the boat."

"Mr. Roosevelt mounted a horse as soon as he heard of the theft of his boat and started in pursuit down the bank of the river. The Little Missouri is rather crooked, but Mr. Roosevelt came up with them at last and ordered them to bring the boat to the shore. The men in the boat gave him the laugh, but Mr. Roosevelt, presenting a revolver of the very effective type in vogue in that country at that time, again ordered them to bring the boat to the shore. Both of the cowboys were armed, but they complied with the order."

"Mr. Roosevelt kept the men covered while they approached the bank and then ordered them, one at a time, to discard their weapons. Mr. Roosevelt then turned his horse loose to find its way back to the ranch and getting in back to the place where they had stolen the craft. He then escorted his prisoners to the railroad station at Medora and took them to Dickinson to stand trial."

"Later it developed that the two men were horse thieves, and they were tried and convicted and did time for their crime. I forgot whether the charge of stealing the boat was pressed, but I presume not, for horse stealing was the more serious charge. Horse thieves in that country got very little consideration in those days, and the horse thief that got off with a term in prison was lucky."

TO MAKE JAPANESE TALLER

Commission Proposes That Children Shall Not Sit on Their Heels.

The Japanese government has been greatly exercised in its mind over the low stature of the soldiers, and it appointed a commission to study the causes of this lack of height and to suggest a remedy, says the London Globe. The commission has published its report, and it ascribes the shortness of the Japanese to the habit of sitting on the heels, instead of on a chair. This attitude, it holds, had prevented the legs of the Japanese from growing, and it suggests that the children should for the future be made to sit in the European fashion. This is a matter in which the query, "Why can't you leave it alone?" applies with much force.

The legs of the Japanese may be short, but they are uncommonly sturdy and are capable of great feats in marching. Moreover, it should be remembered that a short soldier bears many bullets whistle harmlessly overhead which would kill a taller man. In these days of magazine rifles there is little advantage in height, so it is just as well for Japan that it will certainly take many generations of sitting on chairs to make the Japanese a tall race.

Remaking Playing Cards.

Berlin has started a new industry, says the New York World. Old, stained playing cards, all those slightly soiled which have only been once or twice in use, are collected from hotels, clubs and a hundred other establishments in Germany, Austria, Hungary and Switzerland and are cleaned and made as fresh as new. They are carefully rubbed with benzine on both sides and then, after drying, placed in presses where they are rendered perfectly flat again. They are then sprinkled over with powdered white lead and placed in a warm press, where they receive the finish and shine lost in the fingers of the players. They then find their way into another press, where the edges are carefully cut. Before being put on the market they undergo, each card separately, a careful revision to see that they are all "as good as new."

ROMEO AND JULIET

Juliet sat on a clotheshorse, shivering in her burial robes under a muf and tippet.

Tonight's rehearsal had been the worst of all. Nobody seemed to take any interest or to enter into the spirit of it. The thing had dragged so long the enthusiasm was all dissipated, and the players went through their parts like marionettes, and the 24th was only three days off. It looked as though the whole affair would be a failure.

The nurse, who was just beginning to get a little meaning in her lines, catches the influenza, the stupid carpenter sends up a balcony so high that Juliet must needs stoop to keep her head from being lost in the clouds, and Jack, the perfidious, has had the impudence to tell her that her Juliet would be a good Galatea.

Although she did not know it, this was the sole reason for her dejection. The balcony and the influenza were not irreparable, but her quarrel with Jack, in the light of her overwrought nerves, certainly was. If he had been decently civil and apologized afterward she would not have cared, but he had laughed—laughed outright in her face—and before the whole company, as if he had thought it a good joke.

When at last the troupe had dispersed and the heartless Jack had called back from the door as if nothing had happened, "Good night, little Niobe; hope you'll feel better tomorrow," she crept upstairs and into her little bed, where, alone in the dark, the tragedy, the tomb and the family bosses of the real Juliet seemed as nothing compared with the sorrows she had to bear.

The night of the 24th the company assembled for the first time promptly at the appointed hour, nerved by a grim determination to do or die.

Juliet was perfectly composed, knew every line forward and backward and felt serenely confident she was going to acquit herself as the president of the East End Dramatic club should.

The house filled early, for the association had conscientiously sold twice as many tickets as there were chairs. As the play progressed and the house grew more enthusiastic, the players responded to the encouragement of a sympathetic audience and did better than they had ever done at the rehearsal.

To be sure, Mercutio's sword, made of Chinese coins, fell to pieces with the challenge, "Come, sir, your passadole!" but he had slipped it into his pocket so deftly that the mishap had not been generally noticed, and the moon, which was a lantern supported on the stepladder by Tom Harper, wobbled whenever Tom started giggling, but these were mere trifles.

Under the stress of excitement Amy lost herself when she was on the stage in the passion of Juliet. Her eyes shone verily like "two of the fairest stars, and when, in her earnestness, she leaned near and looked into Romeo's eyes, assuring him, "My bounty is as boundless as the sea, my love as deep," she swore to herself that Amy was adorable.

Romeo and Paris did their duel scene valiantly, and after Romeo, having quaffed his poison, lay dying comfortably—and he managed to fall on a cushion—Juliet glided across the stage with her "I will kiss thy lips. Happy some poison yet doth hang on them."

As she bent low over the prostrate Romeo to suit the action to the words the dead man made a sudden movement and Juliet found herself held in a very substantial grasp.

She had not counted on the revivifying effect her kiss might have on the stork Montague, and she reached for his dagger to utter the lines she had been eager to reach throughout the evening.

And now Romeo, incorrigible beyond all belief, who had done his own death scene splendidly and won applause, detained her. The watch within began to get uneasy, the prompter's voice rang out in impatient tones, and there was a slight stir in the audience.

The situation was becoming strained, but the dead Montague insisted: "Promise me now!"

Tears of anger and mortification welled up in Juliet's eyes; her hand was held in a vise; she could not reach the dagger; there was an unrestrained rustle of apprehension in the audience; and a murmur.

"She has forgotten her lines! What a pity!" reached her ears. The prompter's voice shrilled across the stage. "Then I'll be br-e-e-e!" And Romeo closed his eyes in agony, prepared to hold on all night if need be. It was no longer the dead Romeo, but John Davis, cool and determined, as she had never seen him, who tightened his grasp and urged, "Say, 'Yes,' and I'll let you go!"

Juliet deliberated as long as she dared. Then, at the last moment, when the strain could be endured no longer and the audience was beginning to wonder where the "Niobe" might be, she flashed out in a happy voice, with not a trace of the tragic thrill she had so prided herself upon:

"Yes, Jack! Then I'll be brief—oh, happy dagger! This is thy sheath! There rust and let me die!"

And, forgetting to stab herself, she fell into his arms.—Pittsburg Gazette.

She Was Great.

"Say, Dusty, I've just been readin' about Charlotte Corday. She was a great little woman all right."

"Wot did she do?"

PEOPLE OF THE DAY

New Pension Commissioner.

Vespasian Warner of Clinton, Ill., who has been appointed to succeed Eugene F. Ware, the Kansas post, as commissioner of pensions, has a fine record as a soldier. He entered the service in June, 1861, as a private and remained in it until July, 1866, when he was mustered out as a captain and brevet major. He was wounded at Shiloh, but continued in the service until the fall of Atlanta, when he was sent North. He soon recovered and was sent west to campaign against the Indians.

On leaving the army he entered the law school of Harvard university and completed the course in 1868. He began practicing in partnership with

VESPASIAN WARNER.

Clinton H. Moore of Clinton and soon built up a large practice. He took great interest in the state militia and served as judge advocate general of the Illinois national guard, with the rank of colonel, under the administrations of Governors Hamilton, Oglesby and Fifer.

In 1888 Colonel Warner was chosen as presidential elector. In 1894 he was elected to congress from the old Thirtieth district. He was continuously re-elected until last fall and is now completing his fifth term. Besides serving on the committees on agriculture and pensions he was chairman of the committee on revision of the laws, in which he did conspicuous service. Colonel Warner is a native of Illinois and is sixty-five years old. He will assume his new duties in March.

Tom Reed's Mustache.

One of the army officers who visits the president quite often and always is welcome there appeared the other day minus his mustache. The president twitted him good naturedly about the change the lack of the hirsute appendage made in his appearance.

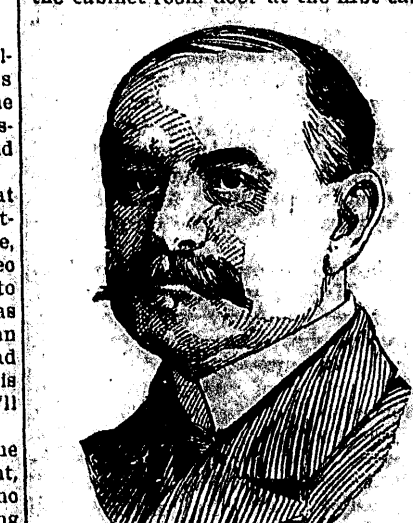

"I went in to have it pomaded," he explained to the president, "and when the barber had finished and I had looked at myself in the glass I was afraid to come out on the street."

"That reminds me," said the president, "of the late Tom Reed's experience with a barber. He wanted his mustache waxed, and the barber waxed it all right. When Mr. Reed looked in the mirror and saw the ends twisted and pointed, sticking out like porcupine quills, he exclaimed disgustedly: 'Here, take it off; take it off. You make me look like a catfish.' And he never wore a mustache afterward."—New York American.

Wit of the Cabinet.

Postmaster General Wynne, who succeeded the late Henry C. Payne as a member of President Roosevelt's official family, is possessed of a clever wit which he uses when occasion offers. Here is a sample:

Secretary Taft, who made Tom Reed's claim that "no gentleman weighs more than 200 pounds" at his own case by changing it to read, "No gentleman weighs more than 300 pounds," pushed his huge bulk through the cabinet room door at the first call.

ROBERT J. WYNNE.

net meeting after the election just as the president said: "I feel so good about the result I'd like to wheel somebody around in a wheelbarrow."

"Well," said Postmaster General Wynne, "there's Taft."

Postmaster General Wynne uses an old desk which he values highly. It is one he used when he was a telegraph operator in the old Cincinnati Commercial Gazette office here shortly after the war. Whitelaw Reid used this desk when he was a Washington correspondent. Reid handed the desk down to Wynne when he left for New York to go to work on the New York Tribune. Now Reid is to be ambassador to Great Britain, and Wynne is to be consul general to London. Wynne says he will take the desk to London with him.

WHIPPLE EXHIBITION

First Prize Won by Richard Yates Rowe, Second Prize by Claude A. Groves—Splendid Contest—Large Audience.

The annual Whipple exhibition for the Whipple prizes was held at the Jones Memorial building on College Hill Wednesday evening and a large audience was present. The contest is open to members of the senior class and the program last evening reflected great credit upon the performers and the department of oratory of the college, under which the exhibition was held.

The musical numbers were also greatly enjoyed and this feature of the exercises was a delightful departure from the custom of former years.

The Jones building was tastefully decorated for the occasion and potted plants graced the platform, while American flags were gracefully festooned on the walls. Principal R. O. Stoopes presided and the exercises of the evening were opened with the invocation pronounced by Dr. C. M. Brown, of Westminster Presbyterian church.

The speakers all acquitted themselves in a splendid manner. They showed a fine spirit of enthusiasm and earnestness, and their delivery was uniformly excellent.

The first prize was awarded to Richard Yates Rowe and the second prize to Claude A. Groves.

The judges were Dr. R. O. Post, T. R. Hopkins and S. A. Glasgow.

The exhibition did not begin until 8:30, out of deference to the prayer meetings, which are held on Wednesday evenings.

THE COHEN MATTER

Evidence Before the United States Court—Case Continued Until Friday.

Jacob Cohen and his son Benjamin were before the United States court at Springfield Wednesday and were called on to testify. On the stand Ben said he did not know the amount that was on the books of the concern, as he was not a bookkeeper and had not paid attention to that part of the business. He had also not tried to collect money, as that was attended to by his father. He knew little of the details of the business. He said he himself was not the possessor of any real estate.

The court remarked that according to reports in the papers the young man had become the possessor of several pieces of real estate and the deeds which had been filed in the circuit clerk's office in this city were produced in court.

Mr. Cohen was declared a bankrupt at 10 in the morning and the deeds had been filed at about 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

At this point the attorney for the Cohens said there were some matters he wished to see about before he would want his other client, Jacob Cohen, to testify, and he asked a continuance until Friday, and asked also for bail. The court replied that he had made up his mind the night before that the defendants should remain in the custody of the United States marshals and he had not changed his mind, and accordingly those officials were instructed to take charge of Jacob Cohen and son Ben and keep them in custody.

The notes of both Jacob Cohen and his son Benjamin have been taken up by directors of the bank which has no interest whatever in the proceedings, as it has been wholly relieved of all responsibility in the matter. It is reported on good authority that a large sum of money, placed as high as $32,000, has been found on the persons of the Cohens. Considerable other property also has been found.

FATAL INJURIES

Josiah Russel, Patient at Central Hospital Attempted Suicide Sunday and Died Tuesday as Result of Wounds Inflicted—Was Veteran of Civil War.

Josiah Russel, of Quincy, aged 70 years, a patient at Central hospital, died Tuesday afternoon from an attempted to commit suicide made Sunday. Russel was brought to the hospital March 6. He attempted to cut his throat with the tines of a fork, which he secreted and took to his room. He succeeded in inflicting painful injuries, jabbing his throat in a number of places, and from the effects of which he died Tuesday afternoon about 3 o'clock. Russel had destroyed the time by dropping it down the water closet.

He was found soon after the injuries were inflicted and his wounds dressed. His age and enfeebled condition were against him, however, from the start and his system failed to survive the shock received.

Mr. Russel was a veteran of the civil war and served in the regular army from 1865 to 1870. He had no relatives living and interment took place here.

Coroner Spencer came up from Murrayville Tuesday evening and held an inquest, the verdict of the jury being in accordance with the above facts.

DEATH RECORD

SIMMS.

Dr. J. R. Simms died at Citronelle, Ala., the 13th. He had taken his wife down there for treatment for her health and he himself fell a victim to the fell destroyer.

Dr. Simms was born in this city Oct. 1, 1850, on the spot now occupied by the residence of Mrs. F. G. Farrell on West State street, though most of his days here were spent at the family home on South West street. He was the youngest son of the late Chatham Simms, one of the first class that ever recited in Illinois college. He attended the common schools of this city and graduated from Illinois college in 1871. While in college he was a member of the Phi Alpha society and was an accomplished speaker and debater. He studied medicine with the late Dr. David Prince and graduated from the Missouri Medical college at St. Louis, and the medical department of Michigan university at Ann Arbor, about 1876.

He first practiced his profession in St. Louis and afterward removed to this city, occupying a residence on West Morgan street, which was sold to George H. Huntton. He removed to Racine, Wis., about 1888, where he had since resided. He was married in Madison, Wis., and was the father of a son and daughter, who, with their mother, survive him. The son was a noted singer in his boyhood. He also leaves his mother and one brother, Louis, of this city.

The time of the funeral is not known.

DEATHERRAGE. Mrs. S. B. Gray received a telephone message Wednesday announcing the death of Mrs. Sallie Deatherage at her home in southwestern Missouri. She was a daughter of Hiram Reeve, deceased, of this county. She was a cousin of Mrs. Gray and is survived by one son, Ernest Deatherage. The remains will be brought to Waverly, the former home of the deceased, for interment. Mrs. Gray will attend the funeral.

BASE BALL GAME.

A game of base ball was played between the "Red" and "Blue" teams of the Fourth ward Wednesday, which resulted in a victory for the former by a score of 17 to 3. The batteries were: "Red"—Nelson, Able and Lynch. "Blue"—Kastrup, Smith and Norris.

PROTECT YOURSELF AGAINST GERMS

People With Weak Stomachs Most Liable to Catch Disease.

When the stomach and digestive organs are weak, the food does not digest, and there is a sour, slimy, fermenting mass, making it an ideal spot for the disease germs to multiply. The only way to protect yourself against disease germs is to strengthen the stomach and digestive organs, and Mi-o-na is the only agent, so far as is known, that will accomplish this.

The ordinary medicine that is taken for indigestion and stomach troubles is advertised to act upon the food alone, and hence can give no more than temporary relief. Mi-o-na is a certain cure in all cases of stomach troubles, excepting cancer, because it enables the stomach and digestive organs to act in the way nature intended they should. Drugs cannot digest the food; they simply decompose it.

If you suffer with distress after eating, pains in the head, chest, sides and back, belching of gases and undigested food, bad taste in the mouth, dizziness, or vertigo, heartburn, variable appetite, sick headaches, spots before the eyes, and have a general feeling of despondency, weakness, and debility you should at once strengthen the stomach and digestive system by the use of Mi-o-na. There is no liquid, no alcohol, no spoonful doses with Mi-o-na. Just one simple tablet out of a fifty cent box before eating, and your stomach will soon become so strong and healthy that you will be germ proof. Ask Hatch to show you the guarantee under which he sells Mi-o-na; costs nothing unless it cures.

Here are the Winners

The first prize, the dandy Buck's Junior Range, was won by Genevieve Schy. The second prize, the hand painted cup and saucer, was won by Beulah Smith. The third prize, the pretty picture, was won by Ha Weatherford.

HERE ARE THE "TEN REASONS WHY" THAT WON FIRST PRIZE

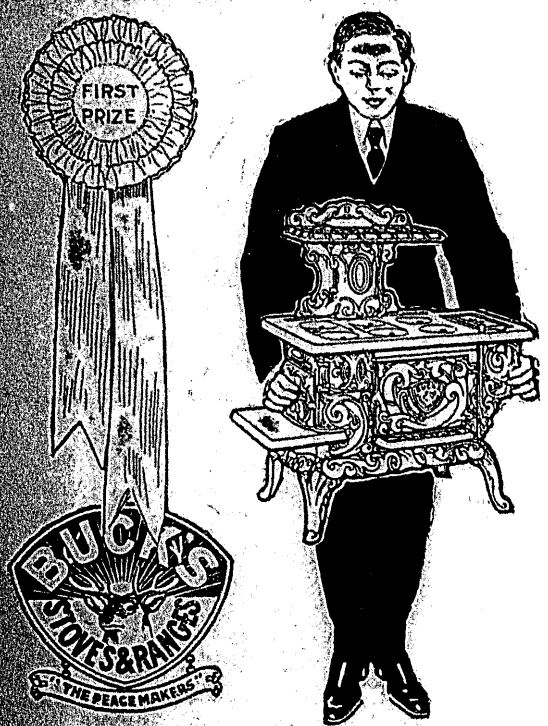

- 1st. Because Buck's Ranges are made with the best material that can be procured, as all the covers and top of stove are made of the best grey iron, which is the strongest and most durable for all ovens and ranges and the tops are made in sections, which allows for expansion and contraction.
- 2d. Because Buck's Ranges are made by the most skilled and experienced workmen.
- 3d. Because Buck's Ranges are full and heavy nickel plated, which makes them very beautiful and attractive in appearance.
- 4th. Because Buck's Ranges have white enameled oven doors and racks, which makes them very easy to keep clean and which also retards and reflects the heat.
- 5th. Because Buck's Ranges are lined throughout with heavy sheets of asbestos, which retains the heat inside the range, which makes it bake quick and even and which would otherwise be lost by radiation.
- 6th. Because Buck's Ranges have genuine duplex grates by which the fire can burn hard on soft coal or wood and also has a hot blast fire box which admits air through the sides and bottom grate and linings which makes the most perfect combustion for coal and also keeps the lining from burning out and saves one-third of the fuel.
- 7th. Because Buck's Ranges have extra large enameled reservoir with flush top, which gives one-third more room on top of range.
- 8th. Because Buck's Ranges have extra large steel ash pan, with a ball which will hold all the ashes made in 24 hours' use; the damper rod is so protected that it will not warp or burn out; the feed pouch is the very largest and cleanest and most convenient made.
- 9th. Because Buck's Ranges have a nice large warming closet, with roll top, which gives full opening when open and also tea shelves on back for holding tea pot and plates.
- 10th. Because Buck's Ranges are sold under a positive guarantee by the Buck's Stove and Range company to be perfect in every way and give the very best satisfaction if the Range is set to a chimney which is not defective.

THESE "TEN REASONS WHY" WON SECOND PRIZE

- 1st. Every user of a "Buck's" range enthusiastically recommends it to all their friends. If they were not everything that they were claimed to be they would have been found out.
- 2d. It is really a "thing of beauty," therefore must be a "joy forever" as it is made of the most durable material.
- 3d. The arrangement of the oven is far superior to that of any other range, as it not only keeps the heat in, but also reflects it, thus doubling its value. The white enamel lining gives its cleanliness and purity.
- 4th. The oven is so ventilated as to make it bake more evenly. It is so enameled as to make it sanitary, clean and satisfactory, also a money saving oven.
- 5th. It is so braced as to prevent deflection and give strength to the key plates. It also has an arch which is used where great strength is needed.
- 6th. It has a lining of asbestos, which holds the heat in the oven, thus preventing it from being lost in radiating into the room. The same lining is used for burning both wood and coal.
- 7th. The firebox has a hot blast lining, which holds the heat, and in that way saving $3-3 per cent less fuel than any other range made.
- 8th. The chimney draft is so arranged as to prevent the gas from being forced up the flue before it is consumed and in that way saving fuel.
- 9th. The reservoir is extra large and strong, it is white enamel and has much greater capacity than others. The top also is flush with the range top, giving a greater space for setting vessels and etc.
- 10th. "Buck's" has an extra large ash pan which has only to be emptied once a day; ash guards are so placed over the pan that all ashes are forced into pan, instead of the bottom of range.

THESE "TEN REASONS WHY" WON THIRD PRIZE

- 1st. The "Buck's" Range is a handsome piece of kitchen furniture and so much better than all other ranges, that it is a "thing of beauty."
- 2d. If you want to see a stove with "range" Go to Andre & Andre's and see a "Buck's" Range. It will please you so that you cannot get it any other place.
- 3d. The "Buck's" Stoves and Ranges are made from the best of material, so attractive in appearance, with its niceness and graceful style. It pleases you more every time they look at it. All top covers and center pieces are made in sections to allow for expansion and contraction.
- 4th. "Buck's" Ranges are money savers, for the reason they burn less fuel than any other range. As all the gas is consumed by the use of ventilated linings and heavy sheets of asbestos the heat is retained and radiates the heat into the oven instead of the room.
- 5th. The large white enameled ovens are so nice and easy to keep clean, buck's pastries evenly, a roast will always be juicy and not shrink or lose flavor, which makes it really self-basting, as a name for the "Buck's" oven. Enough cannot be said in praise of them.
- 6th. The warming closet on the "Buck's" Ranges are worth so much. It is so easy to get it, can always be kept clean and is nice to keep meat warm for persons who are late at dining hours, being attached to keep tea or coffee pots on. What a pleasure for a delayed one to come in and find their meals warm by keeping them in the large closet that are placed so early on the "Buck's" Ranges.
- 7th. Any one who wants hot water at any hour should have "Buck's" Ranges, as they are provided with water heaters either straight or L-shaped and can be connected to a pressure boiler. The water heating capacity should please any housewife, and they are also provided with large white enameled reservoir for hot water, whether the boiler attachment cannot be had.
- 8th. The "Buck's" Ranges are so nicely fitted with ash pans that it saves great annoyance to the one who has the ashes to empty, for the reason they are large and hold all the ashes for 24 hours instead of having to be emptied twice a day. And the ashes are forced in the pan by a steel guard instead of the ash pit or on the floor when the door is opened.
- 9th. The grates in the "Buck's" Ranges are genuine, burn either soft or hard coal or wood if desired by reversing the bottom grate. All with so much ease and no wasted time for changing linings and grates.
- 10th. The damper handles are so protected that the rod is not heated and will not warp and get out of order. In fact the "Buck's" Ranges are so constructed with their asbestos and white enameled linings and their beautiful decoration of nickel platings and so easy kept clean and polished that it should give our mummies and all other ladies much pleasure to cook on such a stove as the famous "Buck's" Ranges.
- 11th. Last of all, is the recommendation that the "Buck's" Ranges received from all users and the guarantee and warranty that the company gives who has put the best and most reasonable priced stoves and ranges before the public for fifty-eight years should convince any mamma, lady or gentleman that "Buck's" Range is the one to purchase in preference to all others.
